

Brain teasers

Questions

1. The capital letters C, O, S, and U have a distinctive property among all other capital letters. Can you figure out what that distinction is?
2. Many parts of the human body have three-letter names, for example, “arm.” See if you can think of at least nine others.
3. LEADER is an interesting word because it has more than one anagram. How many can you find?
4. Is the statement below true or false?

“Elizabeth’s niece’s father’s daughter’s aunt could be Elizabeth.”

Answers

1. The capitol letters C, O, S, and U are the only capitol letters that do not contain at least one straight line in their configuration.
2. Arm, leg, ear, toe, lip, hip, eye, rib, jaw, gum
3. LEADER, DEALER, REDEAL, RELEAD
4. True